Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 07 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold and dry today, turning warmer tomorrow with some rain.

Today:
A dry and sunny start to the day for most, with temperatures warming slightly compared to yesterday, though still remaining cold. Turning cloudier in the afternoon but staying dry. Still feeling bitterly cold despite lighter winds than yesterday. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Tonight:
A cold start to the night with widespread cloud. Warmer air moving in will result in temperatures rising by dawn as rain pushes in, most widespread in the south. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Thursday:
Early rain becoming scattered showers and drizzle throughout the day, though remaining cloudy for most. Continuing to be slightly warmer. Winds picking up again, with gales possible in the north. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Turning cold or very cold again for the next three days. Mostly dry with sunny spells, though some showers possible throughout, maybe wintry. Widespread frost possible overnight, especially Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.